Farm with a large house, storage rooms ruins, with good land to rebuild near Abiul in central Portugal.

This farm is located in a village belonging to Abiul, about 4km, 10.5km from Ansião and the city of Pombal at 11km. You will find everything in any of these locations to satisfy your daily needs. And it is very central to take road routes to all points in Portugal.

This property has 2,700m² of flat, fertile land with a well, a threshing house, a threshing floor and two patios. The house is of a manorial style, having once belonged to a family of possessions; we can still see the date on a door bar dating from 1841.

This is in ruins, and you can still see some rooms, such as a room as soon as you enter the door, three rooms that would be bedrooms, and a kitchen without a roof, where we have a traditional fireplace. A cellar where artefacts are still found to make wine.

There are numerous divisions in the storage area, once the donkey's "home" and the shelter for other animals. The dwelling house has 178m² of implantation, and the storage has 192m². Together you will be able to make an excellent, large and fantastic house that you can put into practice and transform into your dream home.

This property already has the extension of water to connect and has a wall practically all around the property.
